Anti-money laundering compliance requirements

The Anti-Money Laundering and Countering Finance of Terrorism Act 2009 (AML/CFT) (commonly referred to as AML) requires that real estate salespeople in New Zealand conduct AML customer due diligence on all beneficial owners of a property before the real estate salesperson enters into an Agency Agreement with a client (vendor/seller).

To meet these obligations the salesperson is required at the time of appraising or listing a property to obtain information and documentation from the vendor/seller that identifies the legal name(s) of the 'beneficial owner(s)/real person(s), who are selling the property.

What will we be asking for?

- The full legal name(s) of the beneficial owner(s)/real person(s) who are selling the property.
- Formal documentation to prove the identity of those persons.
- Proof of your current residential address dated within the last 12 months of listing the property (utility bill, bank statement, letter from government agency – cannot be a PO Box).
- The reason(s) that you are selling the property. e.g. downsizing, moving overseas etc.

How will this be collected?

There are three (3) ways the information can be collected:

- Face-to-face

If the salesperson is dealing directly with the 'beneficial owner(s)/real person(s), using a secure mobile application.

- Trusted referee for New Zealand based 'beneficial owner(s)/real person(s)'

If you cannot meet with the salesperson face-to-face the identification documents provided must be accompanied by a Certificate signed by a trusted referee (or a copy of your document must be certified by a trusted referee (e.g. lawyer, accountant, Justice of the Peace etc.

- Statutory declarations for overseas based 'beneficial owner(s)/real person(s)'

When certification occurs overseas, copies of international document identification provided by the 'beneficial owner(s)/real person(s)' must be certified by a person authorised by law in that country to take statutory declarations equivalent in that person's country.

The overseas certification must be dated within three (3) months of the listing of your property.

Nature and purpose

You will be asked to provide information about the nature and purpose of the sale.

Foreign exposure

You will be asked to confirm if you have any foreign exposure, this includes if you reside or hold assets overseas that relates to your listing.

What forms of 'Proof of Identity' are acceptable?

To assist you to have the right documentation ready to ensure that your property gets listed quickly, see the options below.

'Beneficial owner/real person' proof of identity

Once the full legal name(s) of the 'beneficial owner(s)/real person(s)' have been established, documentation that can prove the identity of those persons must be obtained.

This documentation must be obtained for EACH AND EVERY 'beneficial owner(s)/real person(s)' and must be current and valid, within its expiry date.

The licensee will ask each of the beneficial owners to provide identity documents.

Identification options that can be used:

Photographic identification

One of the following – must contain the name, date of birth, a photograph, the signature of the person named:

- NZ drivers license
- NZ passport
- NZ refugee travel document
- NZ certificate of identity
- NZ firearms licence
- Overseas passport
- National identity card

Non-photographic identification

This could include:

- 18+ card
- NZ birth certificate
- Certificate of NZ residency or citizenship
- Citizenship certificate issued by a foreign government
- Birth certificate issued by a foreign government
- International Driving Permit

'Beneficial owner/real person' verification of documentation

When the licensee has been provided with identification documentation they are required to verify that it belongs to the 'beneficial owner(s)/real person(s)' that provided it.

That can be by:

Face-to-face

If the licensee has been dealing directly with the 'beneficial owner(s)/real person(s)' on a face-to-face basis they are to record this correctly, and ensure the correct attestation is made confirming this fact.

Trusted referee (New Zealand based 'beneficial owner(s)/real person(s)')

If the licensee has not met the 'beneficial owner(s)/real person(s)' on a face-to-face basis the identification document provided must be accompanied by a Certificate signed by a trusted referee.

The Trusted Referee Certificate must state that the trusted referee has sighted the original documents and that the documents are a true copy and represent the identity of the named individual.

This official certification must be signed by the trusted referee in full, and dated. This certification must be within three (3) months of the CDD onboard taking place.

Statutory declarations (Overseas based 'beneficial owner(s)/real person(s)')

When certification occurs overseas, copies of international document identification provided by the 'beneficial owner(s)/real person(s)' must be certified by a person authorised by law in that country to take statutory declarations or equivalent in the 'beneficial owner(s)/real person(s)' country.

This overseas certification must be dated within three (3) months of the CDD onboard taking place.

Planning to sell

Before you start the process of selling a property, take the time to think and talk about what you want to achieve and your next steps.

Summary of important things to know

- It's helpful to have an idea of the current market value of your home before you start planning to sell. You can get an idea by researching online, paying a property valuer for a valuation or asking a number of real estate agents for a current market appraisal (CMA).
- Think about what you can do to get the best price for your property and the best return on any investment to make it ready for sale.
- Plan whether you will sell and then wait to buy a new property or whether you will buy and sell at the same time. Understand the advantages and risks with both approaches.
- Consider how you want to sell your property and whether there are time constraints to take into account.
- We recommend you talk to a lawyer first if the property is part of a deceased estate or held in a trust.

Find out how much your property is worth

Whether you decide to sell your property and what you do next may depend on how much money you could get if you sell. Finding out how much your property is worth in the current market is a good place to start.

Rating value (RV)

The RV of your property is the value the local council uses to determine rates payable on the property. It is not necessarily the market value, but it is one of the values a buyer may use to assess the value of a property.

Your local council will send you an updated rating value (RV) for your property every few years when it is reviewed. You can get a copy of the latest RV notice from the council. Depending on the date of the last review, the RV may not reflect the current market value. Market values can change quickly, for example, if the area is re-zoned by the local council. The RV may not reflect any recent improvements you've made, especially if these improvements haven't required council consent. You can request an urgent RV review from the council.

Nearby sales

You can get an idea of property sale prices in your area online. Some of these website services are free, but they may not be up to date with the most recent sales. Local sales are a helpful indication of property values in your area, but you'll need to take into account the condition of a property and that any special features will likely differ from those of your property.

Current market appraisal

A real estate agent will assess the current market value of your property before presenting an appraisal and proposal for you to consider. An appraisal should be based on a visit to the property to assess its condition. The agent should also compare your property to similar local properties which have sold recently. The proposal will explain the services the agent can provide and the agent's thoughts on how to market your property. If an agent provides you with an appraisal, you do not have to then use their services. You may like to speak to a few different agents to find the right agent for your needs and to compare their proposals.

Property valuation

You can ask a registered valuer to provide you with a valuation. This service comes at a cost (the price will vary depending on the level of detail). The valuation will take into account (among other things) sales in your area, the type of property you have, its features and what your house is made of.

Registered property valuers are qualified and experienced in property valuation. They will know their local real estate market and will be knowledgeable about building methods, materials and legislation.

Find a registered property valuer on the Property Institute (PINZ) website: propertyinstitute.nz/

Consider what to do to get the best price

Your property should be looking its best to get the best price when you come to sell.

Think carefully about major renovations – you may not get your money back if you tackle big jobs like modernising the kitchen or bathroom before selling. Budget carefully if you decide to go ahead.

If a property valuer or agent has valued your property, ask them what they would recommend before you tackle major work.

Think about the best time of year to sell your property – for example, it may be better to sell in summer if your home doesn't get much winter sun.

Decide if you'll sell before buying

Selling your home first, then looking for a new one is less stressful and risky than buying and selling at the same time.

Selling first means you have freed up any equity and have a good idea of your budget for your next home. You're also a cash buyer and will have an advantage over anyone who is making an offer conditional on selling their own property. If you can negotiate a long settlement period when you sell, you'll have more time to find your next property without having to rent or move twice.

Renting or storing belongings between moving out of one home and into another will add to your costs. It may also be time consuming finding and moving to temporary accommodation and potentially disruptive, especially for children.

If you've already found your next home and need to sell your current home to finance it, you can make your offer to buy conditional on selling your home. If the seller accepts your offer with that condition, you'll have time to sell your home within the timeframe set out in the condition. Sellers are likely to find unconditional offers more attractive, so consider this before deciding whether to sell your own home first.

You can talk to your bank or lender about bridging finance, which is a short-term home loan that can help you purchase a new property before your existing home is sold. There is a risk of more bridging finance debt than you planned if your sale takes longer than expected or if you get less than you hoped when you sell your house.

If it takes longer to sell your existing home than expected, you may find yourself owning two properties for a while with the associated home loan, insurance and rates costs to pay.

Consider the ways to sell your house

We recommend that you use a licensed real estate agent to help sell your house. You can also choose to sell your house privately.

- A local licensed agent has the skills and knowledge to sell your property and manage the sale process for you. You pay them a commission when the sale and purchase agreement becomes unconditional.
- If you sell privately, you won't pay a commission when you sell, but you need to manage the sale process yourself, including running open homes, managing advertising and following up and negotiating with potential buyers.
- There are a number of online agencies that provide you with marketing and legal documentation in exchange for a commission. In some cases, the commission is paid up front. You will need to manage parts of the sale process yourself.

Whichever method you choose, it's important to get legal advice before you sign an agency agreement or a sale and purchase agreement.

- Read more about working with an agent here settled.govt.nz/selling-a-home/selling-your-property/selling-with-an-agent/
- Read more about understanding selling privately here settled.govt.nz/selling-a-home/selling-your-property/selling-privately/

Work out how quickly you want to sell

Early on in the sale process, you'll need to decide which method of sale to use. If time is important, you may want to consider a time-bound method like auction, tender or deadline sale. If you have more time, you can talk to your agent about selling by advertised price or by negotiation.

Whichever method of selling you choose, investing in marketing your property well will help sell it faster.

Selling property from a deceased estate or family trust

Deceased estate

If the property you are selling is part of a deceased estate, we recommend you discuss this with a lawyer before proceeding. This can be a complex process depending on how the property is owned.

Family trust

Many homes in New Zealand are held in a family trust. A property held in trust can be sold, but there are complexities depending on how the trust has been set up. We recommend you get legal advice before proceeding.

Key things to know about agency agreements

- An agency agreement is a legally binding contract between you, the seller of the property, and a real estate agency.
- Sole agency agreements and general agency agreements allow different things.
- You can negotiate what's in an agency agreement, including the timeframe it covers, how much commission you'll pay and any expenses you'll pay.
- Your real estate professional must verify your identification to meet obligations under New Zealand's anti-money laundering legislation.
- You need to read and understand the agency agreement before you sign it.
- You should also get legal advice before you sign.
- The agency agreement is only available in English. You may need assistance interpreting it if English is not your primary language.
- You must be given a copy of the signed agency agreement within 48 hours of it being signed.

What an agency agreement is

An agency agreement gives the real estate agency the right to market your property for sale. It sets out all the terms and conditions of your contract, such as what your real estate professional will do for you and what you'll pay them.

If you use a real estate agency to sell your property, you must sign an agency agreement with them first. This is called listing your property.

While an individual real estate professional may sign you up, your contract is between you and the real estate agency they work for. Depending on the conditions of the agency agreement, once you've listed your property, any real estate professional in the agency can help you sell it. It is important to remember that all real estate professionals in the agency you list with are working for you – even if they find their own buyers.

Check...

First, check that your real estate professional is licensed. Use the public register at rea.govt.nz to check their details and see if they've had any complaints upheld against them in the last 3 years.

If you deal with an unlicensed person, it can make it harder to get help if things go wrong and the Real Estate Authority may be limited in the way we can help you.

What's in an agency agreement

The layout and content of agency agreements can vary between real estate agencies, but it should include the following things.

Details about the property for sale

- The address of your property.
- The chattels to be sold with your property, for example, whiteware or curtains.
- Details about your property, for example, land area and number of bedrooms and bathrooms.

Information that needs to be shared with the buyer

- Whether there is any part of the property that doesn't have building consent or a code compliance certificate.
- If the property has any faulty building materials like asbestos or Dux Quest piping.
- If there are any planned developments nearby that might affect the property.

You need to make sure that any details you give the real estate professional are accurate. If you don't, the buyer may be able to take legal action against you.

Details about you and the real estate agency

- Your name, address and other contact details. (The real estate agency will need to verify your identity so they can meet their obligations under the Anti-Money Laundering and Countering Financing of Terrorism Act 2009.)
- The name and contact details of your lawyer or conveyancer.

It is important to tell the real estate professional everything you know about the property. A real estate professional is required to disclose known defects of a property to the potential buyer. You may not instruct the real estate professional to withhold any information about the property. A real estate professional may cancel an agency agreement if you instruct them not to disclose known defects.

- The name of the real estate professional mainly responsible for marketing and selling your property.
- The real estate agency's name and address.

Who has the authority to sell the property?

If you're not the only owner of the property, all owners must sign the agency agreement or you must show you have the authority to sign for all owners.

Confirmation that you've been given a copy of this guide

Your real estate professional is legally obliged to give you a copy of this guide before you sign an agency agreement. They also have to get your written confirmation that you've received it.

Details of what you authorise the real estate agency to do

The agency agreement appoints your chosen real estate agency and sets out what you authorise them to do. For example:

- advertise your property for sale at the price, in the way and on the conditions you've agreed to
- arrange inspection of your property by prospective buyers
- receive a deposit on your behalf
- take their commission from the deposit.

The type of agency agreement and how long it lasts

The agency agreement will state whether it's a sole agency or general agency agreement, when it starts, when it ends and how to end it. It is up to you and the real estate agency to agree how long the agreement will last.

The real estate professional must give you a copy of the signed agency agreement within 48 hours of it being signed.

Sole agency and general agency agreements allow different things

A sole agency agreement gives one real estate agency the exclusive right to market and sell your property.

A general agency agreement gives more than one real estate agency the right to market your property. You'll sign a separate agreement with each real estate agency but should only pay a commission to one agency. The real estate agencies must tell you if there is a risk of you paying two commissions.

If you sign a sole agency agreement, there are some things you should be aware of:

- You shouldn't sign another agency agreement with anyone else. If you do, you may have to pay both real estate agencies a commission when your property sells.
- If you sell the property privately with a sole agency agreement in place, you will still need to pay the real estate agency a commission when you sell.
- You or the real estate agency can cancel a sole agency agreement at the end of 90 days if that sole agency agreement was for longer than 90 days. Ending the agency agreement must be done in writing.
- In some cases, cancelling a sole agency agreement means it becomes a general agency agreement. You'll need to cancel this too if you don't want to continue with the real estate agency.

You can ask questions, get independent advice, talk to more than one real estate professional and negotiate what's in the agency agreement. You can negotiate timeframes, commission, expenses or services. Make sure you and your lawyer are happy with the agreement before you sign it.

Details of any rebates, discounts or commissions the real estate professional may receive

If a real estate professional gets a discount, rebate or commission on any services they arrange for you and you're paying for, they have to tell you. For example, a real estate professional may receive a discount on the cost of advertising your property in a newspaper.

Avoid paying two commissions

REA introduced standard clauses that offer you protection when it comes to paying commission. These REA-approved clauses help protect you by:

- reducing the likelihood of you being charged commission by two agencies
- clarifying when the agency agreement ends and when you need to pay a commission.

Not all agencies choose to use REA's standard clauses. We recommend you only use agencies that use them. Ask your real estate professional about these clauses before you sign.

Cancelling your agency agreement

It can be difficult to cancel the agency agreement once you have signed it, so think carefully before you put pen to paper. If you change your mind immediately after signing, you can cancel the agreement by 5pm on the first working day after the real estate professional has given you a copy of the agreement. You must cancel in writing, for example, by letter or email.

If you signed an agency agreement as a result of a real estate professional door knocking with their services and later change your mind, you have up to 5 working days to cancel the agreement.

If you do choose to cancel your agency agreement and quickly list with a new real estate agency, be sure to check with your lawyer about what commission obligations you might have to the first real estate agency.

What you need to know before you sign an agency agreement

A written estimate of your sale price

This is the real estate professional's best estimate of the price they expect your property could sell for based on sales of similar properties in your area. This is referred to as an appraisal or a current market appraisal.

How they recommend selling your property

The real estate professional should recommend the best way of selling your property, for example, by advertised price, tender, auction or deadline sale. They will set out in the agency agreement how you've agreed to sell and what marketing you've agreed they'll do.

The agency agreement will include a listing price if your property is being marketed with an advertised price but not if it's being sold by another method.

What commission you'll pay

They should tell you what commission you'll have to pay them, when you'll have to pay and how this payment is calculated. Commissions can vary between agencies, so you may want to compare different agencies or negotiate with your preferred real estate agency. The real estate professional must explain the formula used and give you an estimate in dollars of the commission you'll pay if your property sells at their estimated price. Usually, the real estate agency will take the commission out of the deposit once your agreement for sale and purchase becomes unconditional.

What expenses you'll pay for

Usually, you pay extra for marketing the property, but you don't have to pay extra if you don't want to. You can negotiate on this cost.

Ask what marketing is provided for free by the real estate agency, for example, they may put details of your property in their office or on their website.

You need to consider the cost of extra marketing against the possible benefit. The real estate agency should prepare a detailed marketing plan explaining what you're paying for and when. Remember, you'll have to pay for the extra marketing even if your property doesn't sell.

When the agency agreement ends

When the agency agreement ends, the real estate professional and real estate agency are no longer authorised to act for you. The agency agreement must have a set date or a timeframe from the time the agreement is signed for when the agreement ends. The agreement must also say under what circumstances you might have to pay commission after the agreement ends.

Remember...

Remember, the real estate professional and any of their colleagues from the same agency work for you, and you pay them for their services. Make sure you're happy with their approach before you decide to sign an agency agreement with them. If you are unsure about any terms in the agency agreement, seek independent legal advice.

Real estate professionals have to hold a licence in New Zealand to sell property. This allows REA to set and uphold high professional standards of conduct expected from licensed real estate professionals through rules, standards and guidelines. Real estate professionals must adhere to a Code of Conduct and meet ongoing continuing professional development training to maintain their licence.

What happens if you have a problem

If something has gone wrong, first discuss your concern with the real estate professional or their manager. All agencies must have in-house procedures for resolving complaints.

If you can't resolve the issue with the real estate agency or you don't feel comfortable discussing it with them, you can contact the Real Estate Authority (REA). We can help in a number of ways if your complaint is about the real estate professional. For example, we can help you and the real estate professional or agency to resolve the issue and remind them of their obligations under the Real Estate Agents Act 2008. When you contact us, we'll work with you to help you decide the best thing to do.

Key things to know about sale and purchase agreements

- A sale and purchase agreement is a legally binding contract between you and the other party involved in buying or selling a property.
- You must sign a written sale and purchase agreement to buy or sell a property.
- You need to read and understand the sale and purchase agreement before you sign it.
- Even if a standard sale and purchase agreement is being used, you should always get legal advice before you sign the agreement and throughout the buying and selling process.
- You can negotiate some of the terms and conditions in a sale and purchase agreement.
- You can include additional clauses, such as what to do if there are special circumstances. Your lawyer plays an important role in providing advice on what the sale and purchase agreement should say.
- A sale and purchase agreement becomes unconditional once all the conditions are met.
- In most cases, the real estate professional is working for the seller of the property, but they must treat the buyer fairly.
- If your real estate professional or anyone related to them wants to buy your property, they must get your written consent to do this. They must also give you a valuation of your property by an independent registered valuer.
- The sale and purchase agreement is only available in English. You may need assistance interpreting it if English is not your primary language.

What a sale and purchase agreement is

A sale and purchase agreement is a legally binding contract between you and the other party involved in buying or selling a property. It sets out all the details, terms and conditions of the sale. This includes things such as the price, any chattels being sold with the property, whether the buyer needs to sell another property first or needs a property inspection and the settlement date.

A sale and purchase agreement provides certainty to both the buyer and the seller about what will happen when.

What's in a sale and purchase agreement

Your sale and purchase agreement should include the following things.

Basic details of the sale

Different sale methods like tender or auction might mean the sale and purchase agreement can look different, but all sale and purchase agreements should contain:

- the names of the people buying and selling the property
- the address of the property
- the type of title, for example, freehold or leasehold
- the price
- any deposit the buyer must pay
- any chattels being sold with the property, for example, whiteware or curtains
- any specific conditions you or the other party want fulfilled
- how many working days you have to fulfil your conditions (if there are any conditions)
- the settlement date (the date the buyer pays the rest of the amount for the property, which is usually also the day they can move in)
- the rate of interest the buyer must pay on any overdue payments (such as being late on paying the deposit or the remaining amount at the settlement date).

General obligations and conditions you have to comply with

The sale and purchase agreement includes general obligations and conditions that you will need to comply with. For example, these may include:

- access rights – what access the buyer can have to inspect the property before settlement day
- insurance – to make sure the property remains insured until the settlement date and outline what will happen if any damage occurs before settlement day
- default by the buyer – the buyer may have to compensate the seller if they don't settle on time, for example, with interest payments
- default by the seller – the seller may have to compensate the buyer if they don't settle on time, for example, by paying accommodation costs
- eligibility to buy property in New Zealand – people who have migrated to New Zealand may not be permitted to immediately buy property or may need to get consent from the Overseas Investment Office.

Your lawyer will explain these clauses to you.

Check...

Always check your sale and purchase agreement with a lawyer before signing.

Buying or selling a property where the owner isn't able to participate, like a mortgagee sale or deceased estate, can mean the real estate professional has limited information about the property. It pays to allow for this when deciding what conditions the buyer and seller might need.

Remember...

Before you sign a sale and purchase agreement, whether you're the buyer or the seller, the real estate professional must give you a copy of this guide. They must also ask you to confirm in writing that you've received it.

Specific conditions a buyer may include

Some buyers will present an unconditional offer, which means there are no specific conditions to be fulfilled. Some buyers will include one or more conditions (that must be fulfilled by a specified date) in their offer such as:

- title search – this is done by the buyer's lawyer to check who the legal owner of the property is and to see if there are any other interests over the property such as caveats or easements
- finance – this refers to the buyer arranging payment, often requiring bank approval for a mortgage or loan
- valuation report – a bank may require the buyer to obtain a valuation of the property (an estimate of the property's worth on the current market) before they agree to a loan
- Land Information Memorandum (LIM) – provided by the local council, this report provides information about the property such as rates, building permits and consents, drainage, planning and other important information
- property inspection – a buyer paying for an inspection provides an independent overview of the condition of the property rather than relying on an inspection that has been arranged by the seller

- engineer's or surveyor's report – similar to the above but more focused on the entire section and the structure of the property
- sale of another home – the buyer may need to sell their own home in order to buy another.

The real estate professional helps the buyer and the seller to include the conditions they each want. Even though the real estate professional works for the seller, they also have to deal fairly and honestly with the buyer. While they're not expected to discover hidden defects, they can't withhold information and must tell the buyer about any known defects with the property. If a buyer needs time to check a property for defects, including a property inspection condition may be important.

What happens after you sign the sale and purchase agreement

Signing the sale and purchase agreement is not the end of the sale or purchase process.

Both parties work through the conditions until the agreement is unconditional

A conditional agreement means the sale and purchase agreement has one or more conditions that must be met by a specified date and before the sale goes through.

The buyer pays the deposit. Depending on what the sale and purchase agreement says, the buyer may pay the deposit when they sign the agreement or when the agreement becomes unconditional. If the deposit is made to the real estate agency, it must be held in their agency's trust account for 10 working days before it can be released to the seller.

An agreement for sale and purchase commits you to buy or sell

Once you've signed the sale and purchase agreement and any conditions set out in it have been met, you must complete the sale or purchase of the property.

The length of time between the conditions being met and the settlement date varies. Settlement periods can be lengthy if the property hasn't been built yet or the sale and purchase agreement includes conditions for one party to buy or sell another property. The real estate professional has obligations to keep you informed of important updates that come up during this time.

Pre-settlement inspection

This is the chance for the buyer to check the property and chattels are in the same condition they were when the sale and purchase agreement was signed and to check that the seller has met any conditions, for example, there is no damage to walls or chattels haven't been removed from the property.

It's important to raise any concerns you find at the pre-settlement inspection with your lawyer and the real estate professional as soon as possible to allow enough time for an issue to be resolved. If it's less than 24 hours before settlement, the vendor may not be obligated to set things right.

Payment of a commission

Once the sale is complete, the seller pays the real estate professional for their services. The real estate agency usually takes the commission from the deposit they're holding in their trust account. The seller should make sure the deposit is enough to cover the commission. The real estate professional cannot ask the buyer to pay for their services if they have been engaged by the seller.

The buyer pays the rest

The buyer pays the remainder of the amount for the property on the day of settlement, usually through their lawyer.

Buying a tenanted property

If the property is tenanted, the agreement for sale and purchase should specify this. It may also contain a specific date for possession that may differ from the settlement date.

If the buyer requires the property to be sold with 'vacant possession', it is the seller's responsibility to give the tenant notice to vacate in accordance with the tenant's legal rights.

It is recommended that you seek legal advice if you are buying a property that is currently tenanted.

What happens if you have a problem

If something has gone wrong, first discuss your concern with the real estate professional or their manager. All agencies must have in-house procedures for resolving complaints.

If you can't resolve the issue with the real estate agency or you don't feel comfortable discussing it with them, you can contact the Real Estate Authority (REA). We can help in a number of ways if your complaint is about the real estate professional. For example, we can help you and the real estate professional or agency to resolve the issue and remind them of their obligations under the Real Estate Agents Act 2008. When you contact us, we'll work with you to help you decide the best thing to do.

Rules

These rules make up the Real Estate Agents Authority code of professional conduct and client care. The rules were made by the Authority and notified in the New Zealand Gazette.* The rules set minimum standards of conduct and client care that licensees are required to meet when carrying out real estate agency work and dealing with clients.

* Pursuant to section 14 of the Real Estate Agents Act 2008, the Real Estate Agents Authority, with the approval of the Minister of Justice given in accordance with section 17 of that Act, and after consultation in accordance with section 16 of that Act, makes the following rules.

These rules are the Real Estate Agents Act (Professional Conduct and Client Care) Rules 2012.

2 Commencement

These rules come into force on 8 April 2013.

- 3.3 These practice rules are not an exhaustive statement of the conduct expected of licensees. They set minimum standards that licensees must observe and are a reference point for discipline. A charge of misconduct or unsatisfactory conduct may be brought and dealt with despite the charge not being based on a breach of any specific rule.
- 3.4 These practice rules must be read in conjunction with the Act and regulations, and do not repeat duties and obligations that are included in the Act or regulations.

4 Interpretation

- regulations means regulations made pursuant to the Act.

- 6.3 A licensee must not engage in any conduct likely to bring the industry into disrepute.
- 6.4 A licensee must not mislead a customer or client, nor provide false information, nor withhold information that should by law or in fairness be provided to a customer or client.

7 Duty to report misconduct or unsatisfactory conduct

- 7.1 A licensee who has reasonable grounds to suspect that another licensee has been guilty of unsatisfactory conduct<sup>1</sup> may make a report to the Authority.
- 7.2 A licensee who has reasonable grounds to suspect that another licensee has been

9 Client and customer care

General

- 9.1 A licensee must act in the best interests of a client and act in accordance with the client's instructions unless to do so would be contrary to law.
  - 9.2 A licensee must not engage in any conduct that would put a prospective client, client, or customer under undue or unfair pressure.
  - 9.3 A licensee must communicate regularly and in a timely manner and keep the client well informed of matters relevant to the client's interest, unless otherwise instructed by the client.
  - 9.4 A licensee must not mislead customers as to the price expectations of the client.
  - 9.5 A licensee must take due care to—
    - (a) ensure the security of land and every business in respect of which the licensee is carrying out real estate agency work; and
    - (b) avoid risks of damage that may arise from customers, or clients that are not the owner of the land or business, accessing the land or business.
  - 9.6 Unless authorised by a client, through an agency agreement, a licensee must not offer or market any land or business, including by putting details on any website or by placing a sign on the property.

9.8 A licensee must not take advantage of a prospective client's, client's, or customer's inability to understand relevant documents where such inability is reasonably apparent.

9.9 A licensee must not submit an agency agreement or a sale and purchase agreement or other contractual document to any person for signature unless all material particulars have been inserted into or attached to the document.

9.10 A licensee must explain to a prospective client that if he or she enters into or has already entered into other agency agreements, he or she could be liable to pay full commission to more than 1 agent in the event that a transaction is concluded.

9.11 On notice of cancellation of an agency agreement being given or received by the agent under the agreement, the agent must advise the client, in writing, of the name of each customer (if any) in respect of whom the agent would claim a commission, were the customer to conclude a transaction with the client.

9.12 An agent must not impose conditions on a client through an agency agreement that are not reasonably necessary to protect the interests of the agent.

9.13 When authorised by a client to incur expenses, a licensee must seek to obtain the best value for the client.

Conflicts of interest

9.14 A licensee must not act in a capacity that would attract more than 1 commission in the same transaction.

9.15 A licensee must not engage in business or professional activity other than real estate agency work where the business or activity would, or could reasonably be expected to, compromise the discharge of the licensee's obligations.

Confidentiality

9.16 A licensee must not use information that is confidential to a client for the benefit of any other person or of the licensee.

9.17 A licensee must not disclose confidential personal information relating to a client unless—

- (a) the client consents in writing; or
- (b) disclosure is necessary to answer or defend any complaint, claim, allegation, or proceedings against the licensee by the client; or
- (c) the licensee is required by law to disclose the information; or
- (d) the disclosure is consistent with the information privacy principles set out in section 22 of the Privacy Act 2020.

9.18 Where a licensee discloses information under rule 9.17(b), (c) or (d), it may be only to the appropriate person or entity and only to the extent necessary for the permitted purpose.

10 Client and customer care for sellers' agents

10.1 This rule applies to an agent (and any licensee employed or engaged by the agent) who is entering, or has entered, into an agency agreement with a client for the grant, sale, or other disposal of land or a business.

Appraisals and pricing

10.2 An appraisal of land or a business must—

- (a) be provided in writing to a client by a licensee; and
- (b) realistically reflect current market conditions; and
- (c) be supported by comparable information on sales of similar land in similar locations or businesses.

10.3 Where no directly comparable or semi-comparable sales data exists, a licensee must explain this, in writing, to a client.

10.4 An advertised price must clearly reflect the pricing expectations agreed with the client.

Relationship between prospective client's choices about how to sell and licensee's benefits

- 10.5 Before a prospective client signs an agency agreement, the licensee must explain to the prospective client how choices that the prospective client may make about how to sell or otherwise dispose of his or her land or business could impact on the individual benefits that the licensee may receive.

Agency agreements

- 10.6 Before a prospective client signs an agency agreement, a licensee must explain to the prospective client and set out in writing—
- (a) the conditions under which commission must be paid and how commission is calculated, including an estimated cost (actual $ amount) of commission payable by the client, based on the appraisal provided under rule 10.2;
  - (b) when the agency agreement ends;
  - (c) how the land or business will be marketed and advertised, including any additional expenses that such advertising and marketing will incur;
  - (d) that the client is not obliged to agree to the additional expenses referred to in rule 10.6(c);
  - (e) that further information on agency agreements and contractual documents is available from the Authority and how to access this information.

Disclosure of defects

- 10.7 A licensee is not required to discover hidden or underlying defects in land but must disclose known defects to a customer. Where it would appear likely to a reasonably competent licensee that land may be subject to hidden or underlying defects<sup>4</sup>, a licensee must either—
- (a) obtain confirmation from the client, supported by evidence or expert advice, that the land in question is not subject to defect; or

- (b) ensure that a customer is informed of any significant potential risk so that the customer can seek expert advice if the customer so chooses.

- 10.8 A licensee must not continue to act for a client who directs that information of the type referred to in rule 10.7 be withheld.

Advertising and marketing

- 10.9 A licensee must not advertise any land or business on terms that are different from those authorised by the client.

Contractual documentation and record keeping

- 10.10 A licensee must submit to the client all offers concerning the grant, sale, or other disposal of any land or business, provided that such offers are in writing.
- 10.11 If a licensee is employed or engaged by an agent, the licensee must provide the agent with a copy of every written offer that the licensee submits.
- 10.12 An agent must retain, for a period of 12 months, a copy of every written offer submitted. This rule applies regardless of whether the offer was submitted by the agent or by a licensee employed or engaged by the agent and regardless of whether the offer resulted in a transaction.

11 Client and customer care for buyers' agents

- 11.1 This rule applies where an agency agreement authorising an agent to undertake real estate agency work for a client in respect of the purchase or other acquisition of land or a business on the client's behalf (a buyer's agency agreement) is being entered into, or has been entered into.
- 11.2 Before a prospective client signs a buyer's agency agreement, a licensee must explain to the prospective client and set out in writing—

<sup>4</sup> For example, houses built within a particular period of time, and of particular materials, are or may be at risk of weathertightness problems. A licensee could reasonably be expected to know of this risk (whether or not a seller directly discloses any weathertightness problems). While a customer is expected to inquire into risks regarding a property and to undertake the necessary inspections and seek advice, the licensee must not simply rely on caveat emptor. This example is provided by way of guidance only and does not limit the range of issues to be taken into account under rule 10.7.

- (a) the conditions under which commission must be paid and how commission is calculated, including an estimated cost (actual $ amount) of commission payable by the client, based on the average of the estimated price range of the land or business that the client is seeking to purchase;
- (b) when the agency agreement ends;
- (c) any additional services that the licensee will provide, or arrange for the provision of, on the client's behalf and the expenses relating to those services payable by the client;
- (d) that the client is not obliged to agree to the additional expenses referred to in rule 11.2(c);
- (e) that further information on agency agreements and contractual documents is available from the Authority and how to access this information.

11.3 A licensee must not undertake real estate agency work with customers, or other licensees, on terms that are different from those that are authorised by the client on whose behalf the licensee is carrying out real estate agency work.

11.4 A licensee must submit all offers that the licensee is instructed by the client to make concerning the purchase or acquisition of any land or business, provided that such offers are in writing.

11.5 If a licensee is employed or engaged by an agent, the licensee must provide the agent with a copy of every written offer that the licensee submits.

11.6 An agent must retain, for a period of 12 months, a copy of every written offer submitted. This rule applies regardless of whether the offer was submitted by the agent or by a licensee employed or engaged by the agent and regardless of whether the offer resulted in a transaction.

12 Information about complaints

12.1 An agent must develop and maintain written in-house procedures for dealing with complaints and dispute resolution. A copy of these procedures must be available to clients and consumers.

12.2 A licensee must ensure that prospective clients and customers are aware of these procedures before they enter into any contractual agreements.

12.3 A licensee must also ensure that prospective clients, clients, and customers are aware that they may access the Authority's complaints process without first using the in-house procedures; and that any use of the in-house procedures does not preclude their making a complaint to the Authority.

12.4 A licensee employed or engaged by an agent must advise the agent within 10 working days of becoming aware of—

- (a) any complaint made to the Authority against them, the decision of the Complaints Assessment Committee made in respect of that complaint, and any order made by the Committee in respect of that complaint; and
- (b) if the matter proceeds to the Tribunal, the decision of the Tribunal in respect of the matter, and any order made by the Tribunal in respect of the matter.

12.5 If a licensee was employed or engaged by a different agent at the time of the conduct relevant to the complaint referred to in rule 12.4, the licensee must also provide the information referred to in rule 12.4(a) and (b) to that agent within 10 working days of becoming aware of the complaint.

13 Revocation

The Real Estate Agents Act (Professional Conduct and Client Care) Rules 2009 (SR 2009/304) are revoked.

Taxation (land information) legislation

Information for sellers and buyers – what you need to know

What you need to know:

- The sale or purchase of all land in New Zealand is caught by this legislation and therefore applies to all contracts for the sale and purchase of any land in New Zealand.
- Sellers and buyers who enter into contracts will need to provide a New Zealand IRD number before the settlement can take place and possession can occur.

What sellers and buyers need to provide:

- Sellers and buyers will need to provide their lawyer with their New Zealand IRD number.
- All sellers and buyers will need to complete and sign a Tax Statement before settlement can occur and possession can be given and taken.
- 'Offshore' sellers and buyers will need to provide a New Zealand IRD number or obtain a New Zealand IRD number before the settlement date. (All 'Offshore' sellers and buyers without a New Zealand IRD number will need to get a New Zealand bank account opened before applying for a New Zealand IRD number.) Offshore parties also need to provide their tax number/details from their country of origin.
- An 'exemption' may apply where private individuals are only selling their 'main home'.
- Whether this 'exemption' applies depends upon a variety of factors. Advice must be taken from your accountant or lawyer.
- Entities such as trusts, companies, partnerships, charitable trusts and the like must provide a New Zealand IRD number for their particular entity (not individual partners or trustees) in all cases.
- Each individual seller or buyer must provide their own Tax Statement to their lawyer.
- Without the Tax Statement the seller or buyer's lawyer cannot complete settlement and delays may occur.

Disclaimer:

This information sheet is provided as an indicative guide only. You are recommended to consult your own accountant or lawyer concerning your personal circumstances and the requirements to complete a Tax Statement before entering into a contract to sell or buy land in New Zealand.

Information Sheet

Overseas Investment Act 2005 Version 1: Republished August 2021

Important changes to the Overseas Investment Act 2005 and the Overseas Investment Regulations 2005 relating to the purchase of residential land come into force on 22 October 2018.

The changes affect all purchasers of residential land, not just Overseas Persons.

It is important for overseas persons to seek legal advice as soon as possible prior to making any commitment to acquire residential property.

Residential Land Statement

From 22 October 2018, every purchaser of land that is classified as residential or lifestyle, or that includes residential/lifestyle land (regardless of whether they are an Overseas Person or not), will need to complete a Residential Land Statement advising whether they require Overseas Investment Office (OIO) consent to buy the property.

The Residential Land Statement is available on the REINZ website, under Advisory resources, and on the Overseas Investment Office website.

The purchaser's lawyer or conveyancer will assist them to complete their Residential Land Statement, which needs to be completed prior to settlement.

What does this mean for a purchaser of residential land?

If the purchaser requires OIO consent to purchase the property:

1. They will need to apply to the OIO for permission to do so; and
2. The sale and purchase agreement must be conditional on them obtaining OIO consent, unless they have already obtained a pre-approval from OIO.

If an Overseas Person enters a sale and purchase agreement that is not conditional on OIO consent:

- they will be in breach of the Overseas Investment Act as soon as they enter the agreement;
- they will not be able to settle the contract, even if it is otherwise unconditional, until OIO consent is granted;
- any deposit they have paid may be forfeited;
- the purchaser could be liable for penalty interest for delayed settlement pending the granting of OIO consent;
- the vendor could take action against the purchaser for any losses suffered, including a loss on re-sale of the property; and
- if the vendor or real estate agent knew OIO consent was required, they could be liable for civil penalties.

DISCLAIMER: The material and information contained herein is for general information purposes only and is not intended to form professional legal advice. REINZ does not accept liability for any claim or other action that may arise directly or indirectly from the use of or reliance on the material and information provided herein. REINZ recommends you seek independent legal advice if you are unsure of your legal position.

Therefore, if you are dealing with a purchaser who may require OIO consent and who does not already have pre-approval, the “OIO Consent Required” option in the Conditions box on the front of the ADLS/REINZ Agreement for Sale and Purchase must be marked “YES”. This will activate clauses 10.4–10.6, making the agreement conditional upon the purchaser obtaining OIO consent. Please note, the default time frame for obtaining consent in clause 10.6 is currently 95 days.

The OIO website will provide more information regarding the number of days an application to purchase residential land will take to be processed. The timeframes will depend on the test applied and on whether the applicant is an individual, a trust, or a company.

How do you identify whether the land is residential land?

Whether land is residential land or not is determined by the records held by the relevant Local Authority (Local Council). The chart in Schedule 1 will help you determine whether land could be residential land. If in doubt, contact the relevant Local Authority. Alternatively, you can find this information on property websites, such as PropertySmarts under ‘Category’ on the property details page.

How do you identify whether the land is sensitive land for reasons other than that it is residential land?

You can find out more about what is ‘otherwise sensitive land’ on Land Information New Zealand’s website at <https://www.linz.govt.nz/overseas-investment/what-you-need-do-if-you-are-selling-new-zealand-assets-overseas-investors/sensitive-land>

How do you identify whether the purchaser may be an Overseas Person?

The chart in Schedule 2 will help you to identify whether a purchaser may be an Overseas Person and therefore require OIO consent.

An overseas person will need to satisfy one of the tests set out in Schedule 3 to obtain OIO consent.

Schedule 1: Does the transaction involve an interest in residential property?

Exemptions from OIO consent requirement:

- Purchaser is buying from an apartment developer who holds a Transitional Exemption Certificate or an Exemption Certificate
- Purchaser is a network utility company buying land to provide network services
- Hotel lease-back arrangements

Schedule 3: Tests to be Satisfied for Overseas Person to buy Residential Property

Test 1: Commitment to Reside in New Zealand Test (can be used for property that is residential or residential and otherwise sensitive)

Purchaser

- holds a NZ residence class visa or is an Australian or Singaporean permanent resident that has not lived in NZ for at least 183 days in the last 12 months;
- is acquiring a residential property to occupy (or build to occupy);
- commits to be present in NZ for at least 183 days in the next 12 months, and;
- commits to become a tax resident

Relationship property Exemption

In cases where:

- both spouses or partners are Overseas People
- the land is or will be relationship property

one of the spouses or partners has or will be granted OIO consent under the Commitment to reside in NZ test, then the other spouse or partner is not required to apply for OIO consent.

Notes:

All consent holders must comply with certain conditions. If not then they may need to sell the property and/or face civil penalties,

Also certain “trigger events” may require the consent holder to sell, e.g.:

- absent from NZ for 183+ days in 12 months
- ceases to be a “qualifying person”

Test 2: Increased Housing Test (can be used for property that is residential but not otherwise sensitive)

Purchaser will increase the number of residential dwellings, or the units of a long-term accommodation facility (such as a retirement village) on the land or carry out associated development works (subdivision not sufficient).

Notes:

- Purchaser must agree to sell all their interest in the land within a “specified period” after completion of the development, determined by the OIO
- If the purchaser will be developing 20+ new dwellings, the purchaser may retain an interest as landlord, shared equity, lease-to-own
- Developers of long-term accommodation facilities do not need to sell if a long-term accommodation facility will be operated on the land

DISCLAIMER: The material and information contained herein is for general information purposes only and is not intended to form professional legal advice. REINZ does not accept liability for any claim or other action that may arise directly or indirectly from the use of or reliance on the material and information provided herein. REINZ recommends you seek independent legal advice if you are unsure of your legal position.

- If the purchaser will be developing a large apartment complex of 20+ new residential dwelling they can also apply to the OIO for an Exemption Certificate. The developers or the overseas buyers s may not occupy any of the dwellings unless they have consent under the Commitment to Reside test. Any related parties can only occupy the dwellings at "arms length terms"

Test 3: Non-residential Use Test (can be used for property that is residential but not otherwise sensitive)

The land will be used/developed for non-residential purposes associated with a business such as building a supermarket.

Test 4: Incidental Residential Use Test (can be used for property that is residential but not otherwise sensitive)

The land will be used for residential purposes associated with a business (e.g. staff accommodation when there is no reasonable alternative)

Test 5: Benefit to New Zealand Test (can be used for property that is residential or residential and otherwise sensitive)

The investment will, or is likely to, result in a "benefit" to New Zealand

Notes:

- "Benefit" assessed against factors set out in the Act and Regulations (mix of economic and non-economic)
- This test is unlikely to be widely used for land that is residential but not otherwise sensitive.

Unit title guidance

The Unit Titles Act 2010 includes disclosure requirements for buying and selling unit title properties. This page outlines what your obligations are and the types of disclosure required.

Unit Titles Act 2010

The Unit Titles Act 2010 includes disclosure requirements for buying and selling unit title properties such as apartments and townhouse developments. Vendors must supply formal disclosures to buyers at two separate stages of a transaction:

- Before any sale and purchase agreement is signed.
- Before the settlement date.

These disclosure requirements only apply to unit title developments. You can tell if a property is a unit title development because the record of title will state either 'stratum in freehold' or 'stratum in leasehold'. If in doubt, check with a lawyer or licensed conveyancing practitioner.

For more information:

- Read the Unit Titles Act 2010 at legislation.govt.nz/act/public/2010/0022/latest/DLM1160440.html

Unit Titles Amendment Act changes to disclosure

The Unit Titles (Strengthening Body Corporate Governance and Other Matters) Amendment Act 2022 (Amendment Act) made a number of changes to the Unit Titles Act 2010, including alterations to the disclosure requirements which came into effect on 9 May 2023. The amendments are intended to improve the information provided to prospective buyers of units, as well as governance of multi-unit properties and higher-density complexes.

Licensees need to be fully aware of the changes to disclosure obligations, and the potential consequences for vendors if adequate pre-contract and pre-settlement disclosure is not provided.

Read more about the Amendment Act at hud.govt.nz/our-work/unit-titles-act-2010/

The two stages for disclosure

The Amendment Act specifies new and fuller disclosure requirements for buying and selling unit title properties and requires a wider range of information to be provided to prospective purchasers. It also provides purchasers with additional rights if requirements are not met.

These disclosure requirements came into force 9 May 2023.

Stage 1: Pre-contract disclosure statement

The pre-contract disclosure statement provides prospective buyers with information about the property they are looking to buy. It includes basic information about the unit and the development.

There is now a distinction between a pre-contract disclosure statement for the sale of an existing development and an off-the-plans development, with each requiring different information to be provided to potential buyers.

Vendors must provide a pre-contract disclosure statement to buyers before a sale and purchase agreement is signed. The pre-contract disclosure statement should be completed as early as possible, preferably before marketing the property. You should explain this to your vendor. You will also need to talk to your vendor about how the required information can be collected and explain that they should seek legal advice before completing the form.

When you have the signed and dated pre-contract disclosure statement, provide it to all potential buyers as early as you can, for example, at open homes. At the very latest, it must be provided to the buyer before the buyer enters into a sale and purchase agreement. The buyer will acknowledge receipt of the pre-contract disclosure statement in the sale and purchase agreement.

The pre-contract disclosure statement must include certain prescribed information. A list of the new prescribed information can be found in Regulation 33 of the Unit Titles Regulations 2011 legislation.govt.nz/regulation/public/2011/0122/latest/DLM3695764.html%20.

The pre-contract disclosure statement can be completed using the templates created by the Ministry of Business, Innovation and Employment. These are examples of how to successfully provide the required information under Regulation 33.

Download pre-contract disclosure statement templates at unittitles.govt.nz/forms-and-resources/

There was previously a prescribed form outlining the information required for the pre-contract disclosure statement – Form 18 from the Unit Titles Regulation 2011 – but this has been repealed under the Amendment Act.

There are consequences for the failure to make a pre-contract disclosure. If a vendor fails to provide the buyer with a complete and accurate disclosure, the buyer can cancel the sale and purchase agreement for the unit title property or delay settlement, (subject to strict notice periods).

Stage 2: Pre-settlement disclosure

Vendors must provide a pre-settlement disclosure. Vendors must also provide a pre-settlement disclosure statement to buyers when a sale and purchase agreement has been signed and before the transaction has settled. This disclosure must be accompanied by a certificate provided by the body corporate that certifies the information in the statement is correct.

Like the pre-contract disclosure statement, there is different information required for the pre-settlement disclosure statement for off-the-plans sales, and sales of existing developments.

The purpose of the pre-settlement disclosure statement is to give the buyer additional information once the sale and purchase agreement has been entered into, and before settlement date.

The pre-settlement disclosure statement must include certain prescribed information. A list of that prescribed information can be found in Regulation 34 of the Unit Title Regulations 2011 legislation.govt.nz/regulation/public/2011/0122/latest/DLM3695765.html%20. We recommend you use the pre-settlement disclosure statement templates.

Download pre-settlement disclosure statement templates at unittitles.govt.nz/forms-and-resources/

Just like the pre-contract disclosure statement, there are also consequences for failing to provide a pre-settlement disclosure statement, or if it is incomplete or inaccurate.

The vendor must provide the pre-settlement disclosure statement no later than the 5th working day before the settlement date. If it is not provided by this time, the buyer can either:

- delay settlement until the 5th working day after it is provided, or
- cancel the sale and purchase agreement by giving 10 days' notice.

Vendors should prepare this statement with assistance from their lawyer or licensed conveyancing practitioner and are expected to meet the related costs.

Additional disclosure on request

Vendors no longer need to provide an additional disclosure statement on request from a buyer. This requirement was repealed as part of the recent changes to the Unit Titles Act. A buyer can still request for further information should they want to, but there is no formal requirement by the vendor to provide it.

What this means for you

Talk to your vendor about the need to provide a pre-contract disclosure statement as early as possible and preferably before you start marketing the property. Also ensure that the vendor is aware that a pre-settlement contract disclosure is needed before the settlement of the sale, and within the appropriate timeframe.

Show your vendor the recommended pre-contract disclosure statement and pre-settlement disclosure templates and discuss how the information can be collected to complete it. Explain to your vendor that they must sign the pre-contract disclosure statement and that they should get legal advice if they are unclear about what this means.

Notice periods to end fixed-term and periodic tenancies

Effective 30 January 2025

Tooltips

- Use of the word 'sell' and 'selling' means listing the property on the market for sale.
- Ensure tenants are properly informed that the property is to be sold (avoid $1,800 fine).
- If the owner wishes to list the property empty, they should give the tenant(s) 90 days' notice (periodic tenancy) or notice within the relevant time period (fixed-term tenancy).
- If vacant possession is required, allow at least 50 days (being 42 days' notice plus a minimum of one week) between going unconditional and the settlement date for cleaning, maintenance and general checks.
- Properties can be sold with an existing tenant on a fixed-term, however all terms and conditions continue under the new ownership.
- For periodic tenancies, a reason for giving notice is only required for an unconditional sale, if the owner or their family member will be moving in to the property or it will be used for the owner's employees or contractors (all 42 days).
- For fixed-term, no reason is required to end the fixed-term on its expiry date but relevant notice must be given.
- Reasons for providing notice must be genuine and able to be proven with evidence (to avoid maximum $6,500 fine and compensation).
- Consider carefully when notice is given to avoid a tenant claim that it is retaliatory (wholly or partly motivated by a tenant complaining or exercising their rights or MBIE involvement). Resolve any complaints or issue before giving notice.
- The Tribunal may order a retaliatory notice to be overturned, compensation and a fine/damages (up to $6,500 fine).

Bright-line property tax

For residential property sold from 1 July 2024

Introduction

On 1 October 2015 the bright-line test was introduced applying to residential property bought and sold within a certain period of time (bright-line period). Since 2015, a number of changes have been made to the test.

This guide explains:

- how the bright-line test applies for residential property sold from 1 July 2024
- the exclusions for main home, business premises and farmland
- rollover relief for ownership transfers of inherited property, relationship property and transfers between associated persons
- what expenses you can deduct from this income for tax purposes
- what bright-line income to include in your income tax return
- what happens if you sell the property for a loss.

This guide is not intended for people in the business of property speculating, dealing, developing or building who include property sales as business income in their income tax return. If you have purchased and sold several residential properties or you're a commercial operator, we recommend you consult a tax agent. However, it's still your responsibility to be aware of your tax obligations.

For information on how the bright-line test applies to residential property sold before 1 July 2024, see our guide Bright-line property tax – IR1227.

Note

Properties affected by a North Island adverse weather event and purchased by the Crown or local authority are not taxable under the bright-line test. For more information refer to ird.govt.nz/2023-weather-events

The information in this guide is based on current tax laws at the time of printing.

Part 1 - Bright-line test

The bright-line test taxes profit made on the sale of residential property when it is sold within a certain period of time (bright-line period) and no exclusions or rollover relief apply.

The bright-line test also applies to New Zealand tax residents who buy and sell residential property overseas.

Your intention or purpose for purchasing or selling the property is not relevant.

Note

There are other land taxing rules that should be considered before the bright-line test.

You can use the Property tax decision tool on our website to work out if you need to pay tax on the sale of your property under the land taxing rules, including the bright-line test. For more information go to ird.govt.nz/bright-line

Residential property

Residential property includes:

- land with a house on it
- land the owner has an arrangement to build a house on
- land the owner can build a house on under the district plan rules.

Residential property does not include farmland or land used predominantly as business premises, unless it is a business providing accommodation in a dwelling that is not the owner's home. For more information, see Part 2 - Exclusions.

Example

Robert buys a section zoned for residential purposes in June 2024. He plans to build a home for his family. His situation changes and he sells the section in August 2025.

Even though there is no house on the land at the time of sale, the bright-line test applies.

Bright-line period

The bright-line period begins with the bright-line start date and ends with the bright-line end date.

For residential property sold on or after 1 July 2024, the bright-line test looks at whether your bright-line end date for the property is within 2 years of your bright-line start date.

Example

Mia purchases a property with a bright-line start date of 5 January 2022, which she uses as a rental property. She sells the property on 27 July 2024.

The bright-line end date for the property is after 1 July 2024. However, because it is more than 2 years after the bright-line start date, any profit on the sale is not taxable under the bright-line test.

Note

For property sold before 1 July 2024, the bright-line test works differently. For more information, see our guide Bright-line property tax – IR1227.

Bright-line start and end dates

For a standard purchase of property, the bright-line period starts from the date the transfer of the property’s legal title is registered to you under the Land Transfer Act 2017 (usually the settlement date).

For a standard sale, the bright-line period ends when you enter into a binding sale and purchase agreement to sell the property (even if some conditions like getting finance or a building report still need to be met).

Example

Marie signs an agreement to buy a residential property on 19 March 2023 for short-stay accommodation. The transfer to Marie is registered on the title with LINZ on 17 May 2023.

She decides to sell the property and signs an agreement on 26 July 2024. The transfer is registered on the title on 31 August 2024.

The start date for the bright-line period is 17 May 2023 (the day the transfer to Marie is registered) and the end date is 26 July 2024 (the day the agreement for sale is entered into).

There are other situations that do not follow the standard land sale process. For these situations, there are separate rules for when the bright-line period starts and ends.

Start date

The table below shows various types of purchase and acquisition and the date the bright-line period starts for each.

| Type of purchase/acquisition                                                                     | Date to use                                                                                                                         |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Standard purchase of a property                                                                  | Date the transfer of the property is registered to you with Land Information New Zealand (LINZ) (usually the settlement date)       |
| Subdivided land – property you have subdivided                                                   | The original date of registration for the undivided property                                                                        |
| Off the plans – property acquired relying on the completion of a land development or subdivision | Date you entered into a sale and purchase agreement                                                                                 |
| Change of trustee – land transferred from a trustee of a trust to another trustee of the trust   | Bright-line start date for the original trustee                                                                                     |
| Joint tenancy converted to a tenancy in common or tenancy in common converted to a joint tenancy | To the extent the person's share in the land is unchanged, the bright-line start date for the land before the tenancy was converted |
| Purchase where no registration happens before the sale date                                      | Date you acquired an interest in the property                                                                                       |
| Freehold estate converted from a lease with a perpetual right of renewal                         | Date you were first granted the leasehold estate                                                                                    |
| Land outside New Zealand                                                                         | Date the transfer of the property is registered to you under foreign laws                                                           |

For more information on what start date to use, go to taxtechnical.ird.govt.nz and refer to Question we've been asked (QB) 17/02: Date of acquisition of land, and start date for 2-year bright-line test.

Subdivided land

When land is subdivided, the start date for the bright-line period is the date the legal title for the undivided land was originally registered to the owner under the Land Transfer Act 2017.

Example

The start date for the bright-line period is 1 May 2021 and the end date is 1 May 2025. Bob's sale of the second section to Carl is not taxable under the bright-line test because the bright-line end date is not within 2 years of the bright-line start date. Bob has owned the property for more than 2 years. However, Bob may still need to consider whether any of the other land taxing rules apply.

For more information go to taxtechnical.ird.govt.nz and refer to our Question we've been asked (QB) 18/16: Income tax – bright-line test – main home exclusions – sale of subdivided section.

Off the plans

A purchase off the plans occurs when a person enters into a contract to purchase a parcel of land being developed or subdivided. At the time the person enters into the contract, the title does not yet exist (as the land needs to be subdivided or developed before a separate title can be issued). The person agrees to be registered on the title once it exists.

In this situation, an earlier start date for the bright-line period is used. The start date is the date the person enters into an agreement to buy the land.

Example

The bright-line test applies because the bright-line end date of 1 September 2024 (the date Denise entered into a contract to sell) is within 2 years of the bright-line start date 2 July 2023 (the date Denise entered into a contract to buy the property off the plans). Any profit on the sale is taxable.

Freehold estate converted from a lease with a perpetual right of renewal

When a person has a lease with a perpetual right of renewal which they then convert into freehold land, the start date for the bright-line period is the date the person is first granted the lease. This is consistent with other tax provisions that treat a lease with a perpetual right of renewal similar to freehold estates.

Example

The start date for Kelly's bright-line period is 1 July 2023 (the date the lease with perpetual right of renewal was first granted) and the end date is 1 August 2024 (the date she entered into an agreement to sell the land).

Any profit made by Kelly on the sale of the land is taxable under the bright-line test because the bright-line end date is within 2 years of the bright-line start date.

Contract with purchaser and/or nominee

Often when someone enters into a contract to buy land, the person is named as the purchaser and/or nominee. Before settlement, the person may choose to nominate someone else to complete the purchase, for example a family trust.

In this situation, the bright-line period starts for the nominee on the date the transfer of title is registered to them (this typically happens on the settlement date). If there is no registered transfer of the land, the bright-line period will start on the date they were nominated as purchaser.

This situation will not give rise to any potential bright-line implications for the nominator (the original named purchaser). This is because the nominator does not transfer their interest in the land to the nominee when they make the nomination (there is no disposal). When the legal title is transferred to the nominee, the nominator's interest in the land simply ceases to exist, it is not disposed of.

Example

Andrew acquired an interest in the land (the right to purchase the land) on 1 January 2024 (the date he entered into the sale and purchase agreement). The nomination of the family trust as purchaser does not give rise to any bright-line implications for Andrew. This is because Andrew did not transfer his interest in the land to the family trust when he made the nomination, so there is no disposal of land by him. On settlement when legal title transferred to the family trust, Andrew’s interest in the land ceased to exist and it was not disposed of.

The bright-line period starts on 1 March 2024 for the family trust which is the day legal title to the property is registered to the trust.

End date

The table below shows various types of sales and disposals and the date to use for the bright-line end date. This can include situations where a property is disposed of but there is no agreement in place to dispose of it.

If more than 1 type of sale or disposal applies, then use the earliest date for your bright-line end date.

| Type of sale/disposal                                                        | Date to use                                                                                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Standard sale of a property                                                  | Date you entered into a sale and purchase agreement                                                                    |
| Gifting of property                                                          | Date the gift was made                                                                                                 |
| Compulsory acquisition by the Crown, a local authority or a public authority | Date of compulsory acquisition                                                                                         |
| Mortgagee sale                                                               | Date the property is disposed of by or for the mortgagee because the mortgagor defaulted (usually the settlement date) |
| Disposals not covered above                                                  | Date you disposed of the property                                                                                      |

Example

The start date for the bright-line period for Helen is 1 May 2025 (the date title is registered to Helen) and the end date is 1 February 2027 (the date title is transferred to Ian). Helen's disposal of the land will be taxed under the bright-line test because she disposed of the land by gifting it to Ian within 2 years of the bright-line start date.

Under ordinary tax rules, gifts of land are treated as if they are transferred at market value. As a result, Helen is deemed to have transferred the land to Ian at market value and $50,000 is taxable.

Master Build Guarantee v Building Act warranties

Master Build Guarantee

A Master Build Guarantee is a 10-year guarantee that protects a homeowner when renovating or building a home. It protects the owner for a 10-year period.

While the property is being built the 'Non-Completion Cover' protects the owner if the builder is unable to complete the building working and the deposit is lost; the owner has to pay more than the original contract price to get the work finished; and the cost of any remedial work.

After the build is completed the 'Materials and Workmanship' cover protects the property owner if there is a problem with the expected standard of the work carried out by the builder or with the materials that have been used in the building work.

The maximum cover for all claims throughout the life of the Guarantee is the value of the building contract up to a maximum of $1,000,000.

Process

A Master Build Guarantee will only apply to work carried out by a registered master builder. It is not automatic and must be applied for by both the property owner and the master builder and sent to Master Build Services. Application must be submitted to Master Build Services before building work commences and is not valid until the property owner and the builder have received acceptance confirmation.

To ensure on-going cover once the building project is completed both the property owner and the builder must sign a Notice of Practical Completion form to Master Build Services.

A Master Build Guarantee, once accepted and approved by Master Build Services can be transferred multiple times within its 10-year limit but only remains in force for the original 10 years. All transfers need Master Build Services approval and are dependent on the new owner having filled out and signed a Request of Transfer form supported by a full property inspection report.

Master Build Services will not be responsible for any defects in the property that could have reasonably been expected to be discovered during the inspection.

The Request for Transfer form must be sent to Master Build Services by the new owner within 90 days of settlement and must be accompanied by the building inspection report and a copy of the sale and purchase agreement. Once application has been made, Master Build Services will advise the new owner if the Transfer Application has been accepted or declined.

Building Act warranties

All residential building work is covered by 'implied warranties'. These warranties apply for up to 10 years regardless of whether there is a written contract or what the contract terms are and regardless of the cost of the building project.

The 'implied warranties' are automatic and cover almost all aspect of building work from compliance with the Building Code to good workmanship. A breach of these warranties is a breach of contract.

There is no cap to the limit of a claim under the Building Act warranties only that the loss must be provable in law.

Process

To activate a claim under 'implied warranties', the property owner is expected to resolve the issues through the negotiation process that should be set out in the building contract. If the contract builder does not fix the breach the property owner may engage another tradesman to repair the work. Any disputes that the property owner may have with the builder in regard to defects or workmanship require court action to be taken to prove loss or damage.

Subsequent owners of a property can bring proceedings for a breach of any of the 'implied warranties' notwithstanding that they were not a party to the contract in which the warranties were implied.

Enforcement

Master Build Guarantees and a Building Act Warranties are two totally different products.

Master Build Guarantees are formed by way of performance contract between the property owner/the builder/and Master Build Services. They are enforceable through the Contracts Act under contract performance with Master Build Services.

Building Act Warranties are 'implied' under law. They are enforceable under the Building Act by legal process.

Red flags

When purchasing a property that is being advertised/marketed with a 'Master Build Guarantee' it is the purchaser's responsibility to ensure that they take the steps necessary to complete the Request for Transfer form within 90 days of settlement and make application to Master Build Services for the transfer approval.

Information sheet for buyers and sellers

- Buying off the plans/subdivision
- Subject to issue of code compliance certificate
- Subject to issue of certificate of title

Overview

Buyers of properties 'off the plans/subdivision', 'subject to issue of certificate of title', or 'subject to issue of a code compliance certificate' (new builds/sections) need to be aware that there are risks associated with these types of transactions.

Subdivisions and developments can take many months and sometimes years to complete. Whilst every endeavour may be made by the seller to complete the resource and building consent processes, the building/subdivision work, the code compliance certificate process and to obtain the Record of Title by the dates specified in the sale and purchase agreement, there can be many factors that might delay this happening.

There are occasions where the seller may not be able to deliver the property and the documentation to the purchaser within the time frames specified. Unless this is clearly understood at the time the sale and purchase agreement is entered into, these delays have the potential to place the purchaser in a position of financial and personal stress.

It is critical in each and every agreement that sellers and purchasers seek their own independent professional and legal advice to understand the risks involved in entering into these types of transactions and how the various clauses in the agreement operate. It is strongly recommended that this advice is obtained before signing the agreement for sale and purchase.

Performances clauses; obtaining consents/documentation

In almost every transaction of this type, the sale and purchase agreement should contain a number of performance clauses that deal exclusively with the responsibilities of the parties and which set out the dates by which certain actions must be completed.

While the performance clauses in the contract require the seller to take necessary actions and/or obtain required documentation within specified time frames, there are many outside influences that may impact on the seller's ability to actually meet those time frames. Examples of the various matters that can result in sellers being unable to meet time frames and settlement dates are set out in the attached schedule.

Sunset clauses

Given that delays can and do occur, all sale and purchase agreements for new builds/sections should contain sunset provisions. A sunset provision may form part of a performance clause or it may be a stand-alone clause (sunset provision).

Sunset provisions enable either the seller or buyer to cancel the sale and purchase agreement if an event or action has not occurred by a certain date.

For a purchaser, the events giving rise to the right for the purchaser to cancel under a sunset provision could be that the record of title has not issued or construction has not been completed by a specified date. For the seller, the event giving rise to the right to cancel could be that a certain number of properties have not sold in a given period and/or construction has not started by a certain date.

Both purchaser and seller need to be aware of the potential implications of a sunset provision and what it means for them.

Purchasers need to be aware that although a sunset provision sets out the circumstances in which they can cancel the agreement, it also means that for the period that has been allowed in the agreement for the seller to complete the performance clauses (and this can often be a period of months), the purchaser will be locked into the agreement and they will have lost the opportunity to purchase another property during that time.

Whether it is the seller or the purchaser who exercises the sunset provision, the purchaser may find that prices have increased and they are no longer in a position to buy property for the funds they have available. Bank lending criteria and the purchaser's personal circumstances may also have changed in the intervening period, making it more difficult for the purchaser to purchase another property.

Again, sellers and purchasers must seek their own independent professional or legal advice to ensure that they understand what the various clauses in the agreement, including the sunset provisions, mean for them. It is strongly recommended that purchasers and sellers get this advice before signing the sale and purchase agreement.

Conditional settlement

Examples of issues that can result in sellers not being able to meet time frames

- Public or limited notification of resource consent application
- Submissions in opposition to notified resource consent application
- Decline of resource consent application

- Non-approval of survey plan by council or LINZ
- Non-compliance with consent conditions
- Non-approval of completion certificate
- Non-payment of resource consent fees or development contributions
- Third-party documents and approvals (e.g. Vector or Watercare Services Limited)
- Council documents (e.g. consent notices and covenants)

- Inconsistency between survey plan and other third party, Council and developer documents
- Congestion in LINZ
- Any other reason.

On the issue of a code compliance certificate

The subdivision process

The council's authority and obligation to control subdivisions in their district/city comes from the Resource Management Act 1991; the Local Government Act 2002; and the Local Government Act 1974.

The following is a summary of the process for establishing a subdivision:

1 Feasibility/assessment/budget costing

The developer/owner

- Determines with a qualified surveyor the physical work required for subdivision, costs of completion and any other issues.
- Gets legal advice on any issues such as the inclusion of easements, land covenants, proposed sale of subdivided land, finance required and the ownership structure of the land.
- Confirms with the council the land can be subdivided.

2 Topographical survey/scheme plan of development prepared

- The developer applies for resource consent for the proposed subdivision from the Council.
- The surveyor prepares a scheme plan showing the new lots to be created.

3 Resource Consent Application and Issue of Consent

- The developer submits the scheme plan and the application for the subdivision consent to council.

4 Site construction

Works required to satisfy conditions of consent are required to be completed before a separate title for each lot can be issued. These may be physical works such as:

- Constructing roads/access ways
- Installing drainage and utilities (sewage/water/electricity)

5 Preparation of new title documentation

- The surveyor prepares the survey plan, finalising the areas and dimensions of the proposed lots.
- When the survey plan is completed, the developer's lawyer prepares the documentation required for the issue of new titles. This might include drafting easement, consent notices, bonds, and obtaining the consent of any mortgagee.

6 Section 223/224(c) survey plan approval from Council

- The Council will issue a Section 223 Certificate. A Section 223 certificate is a confirmation by the council that the work specified on the survey plan is in accordance with what was approved by the council as part of the subdivision consent.
- Once the Section 223 Certificate has been signed, a formal application needs to be made by the developer to the council for the issue of a Section 224(c) Certificate. A Section 224(c) Certificate requires council engineering officers to undertake a site inspection, review the supporting documentation supplied with the application, confirm that the relevant development contributions have been paid, and undertake a check of each condition of resource consent to confirm that they have been complied with to the satisfaction of Council.
- When the Section 224(c) Certificate has been signed, application can be made to Land Information New Zealand for the issue of separate titles.

7 Land Transfer Survey and lodge survey approval with Land Information New Zealand (LINZ)

- The surveyor can lodge a new survey plan with LINZ once the section 223/224(c) certificates have been issued and all the legal documentation has been finalised.
- A land transfer survey involves investigating old survey plans and information. Calculations are carried out to define the existing and new boundary positions and a new Title Plan is prepared.

8 Lawyer applies for new Titles

- The lawyer lodges the legal documentation with LINZ for the issue of the new Certificates of Title for each lot.
